02 EDITORIAL

A warm welcome to the pages of the 91th volume of the NEW VOICE OF GOR !

Pushes some scrolls around on his desk murmuring something: I dont want to write "Lorem ipsum dolor sit amet, consectetur adipiscing elit, sed do eiusmod tempor incididunt ut labore et dolore magna aliqua. Ut enim ad minim veniam, quis nostrud exercitation ullamco laboris nisi ut aliquip ex ea commodo consequat. Duis aute irure dolor in reprehenderit in voluptate velit esse cillum dolore eu fugiat nulla pariatur. Excepteur sint occaecat cupidatat non proident, sunt in culpa qui officia deserunt mollit anim id est laborum", then he decides to let the scribes sleep peacefully.

# (OOC) FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTION

Is the NEW VOICE OF GOR OOC or IC?

This newspaper is available IN CHARACTER at message boards in several cities. But it has OOC parts and IC parts which can be identified although many people mix both. We try to keep the two separate. But if you start a storyline based on an IC article of the NEW VOICE OF GOR it would be useful for a moderator to have a log where you have read the message ICly.

The NEW VOICE OF GOR can be true or false, propaganda or journalism like on earth.
There is no freedom of the press on Gor. Why let the truth get in the way of a good story?!

"Goreans were not always fooled by posts on boards.
Those who control the public boards, it is said, control the city.
But I was not sure of this.
Goreans are not stupid.
It is difficult to fool them more than once. They tend to remember."

THE SLAVE'S CORNER
A satiric look at life on this wonderful planet of Gor

By Teal Razor ~ Slave to Siri Emerald Jr. Captain Port Olni Scarlet's

MY PET PEEVE

By Teal Razor

I search for material all week. Flushing out interesting facts and stories that can be twisted to reflect the prevaricating nature of my column can be a hard job. If this material can be enhanced with egregious hyperbole...I will no doubt use it.

This week I was torn. A few people had suggested topics that I could write about. As soon as these lovely townfolk suggested various newsworthy stories, I knew they had never read this column. I mean if they wanted me to spread the news about the birth of their Kurii litter...I don't think they would like my insinuations of the best way to kill those frightening looking half Gorean half Kur beasts. I mean really, any woman mating with a Kurii who possesses the IQ of a bosk needs some serious medication and a chastity belt. Instead of making enemies by doing a hatchet job on their sad lives, I am choosing to write about a pet peeve of mine.

I have been witness to classes that free children attend to sharpen their wits. I remember a group of older students who were being taught the construction of the age old communication instrument called THE MEMO. The instructor gave a simple lecture on the composition of this communiqué. I put quill to scroll and took notes. I will share these with you. In case you have ADD (Anxious Dread of Death syndrome) I will mention again, I am writing about a pet peeve.

Memorandums are by definition a note. So in that spirit, we should not be passing any more cryptic notes to each other and I am thinking specifically about the Notices Section of that Port Olni great scroll, THE OLNI-ALL. If you are Black Caste I would say you may pass all the cryptic notices you need to... don't let me deter you from your pathetic attempts at composing a memo in grammatically correct Gorean. But I digress.....

Here are the rules for memorandum construction as reflected in my scroll notes. First, a memo is a note and as such is short. It is not a epic poem. Thankfully the type setters at the OLNI-ALL will only set so much type for the printing press (lazy lot). This makes the memos in the Notices Section short by default. Second, in order for a memo to communicate properly it must contain correct information. One can then head off at the pass, any head cocking at the impossibility of the dates mentioned inside the memo, as in, we are announcing a class that took place last week if anyone is interested. Interested in what? Getting in a time machine and going back a week in your life to take the said class. I don't even think the Priest Kings can do that. Third, now that we have a short accurate piece of information to communicate we follow the simple rules of who, what, when, where, why. For example~this memo in the notices is to all of the citizens of Port Olni and scattered friends, family and former lovers, Teal Razor wants to tell you that there will be a party, the party will be on Sunday, December 8, 2013 (in actuality I would put Gorean time with a translation), the party will start at 11AM SLT until the Town meeting at 4PM SLT, the party will be at my Master's house, map included in the attachment.

From the pertinent facts you can go on to say, this is an OOC event, come in your nicest Sunday-go-to-meeting clothes. The Paga and Mead will be flowing for all. Cake, fruit, and other sweet meats will be served. There will be music and dancing with a DJ.

Mmmmm...after composing this memo for a party that is fake....I am thinking of making it a real Par-Tay. Well I will work on my memo and you work on your memos in the future. Remember the 5 double-u's or dubbaya's, WHO, WHAT, WHEN, WHERE, WHY. Bless you.....

ANSWER TO MY QUESTION

By Teal Razor

Last week I wondered aloud what happens to warriors or freemen when they are captured. I was informed by a panther, who came into Port Olni disguised as a freewoman, that when a warrior or freeman is captured and that male displays mastery of the Gorean language, has good looks and kissable lips, they are tied to a post. What happens after that is a series of molestations, fornications and makeout sessions that last into the night and that's just what the captured man is forced to do to the panther population of that village. It was an eye opening piece of info. You go girls !!!!!

07 TARNWALD

TOWN-CRIERS CRYING ABOUT SLAVES

The town-criers take to the streets with news that by order of the lawmen in Tarnwald and obvious diligent support of the Praetor Anarch that the following is to be officially declared:

"All slaves not officially registered with the city of Tarnwald will be seized as property of of Tarnwald. Any new slave not registered within 2 hands of her being owned by a citizen of Tarnwald is subject to seizure!"

Many city-guards stood around with a huge grin thinking of all the beasts they might be raping soon.

GREAT CROWD GATHERS AROUND THE HERO

Last eve the streets seemed to have been busier than usually when The Kur slaying Hero of Tarnwald rode in on his thalarion to address the people of Tarnwald. It appears that he has ambitions reaching far beyond those of a common warrior.

DECLARATION OF THE HERO OF TARNWALD:

[15:45] Avhir Allegiere (avhishisata) stared at the luke-warm reactions of all who stood around to his request to support him in his petition to the High Council to be appointed as Administrator. He noted only the gesture and look of the one woman as he kept pulling on the reins of the thalarion to keep the savage and restless beast under control: "This is no longer the age of questionable corrupt rule by a High Council republic, but it's time for proper leadership of an Administrator!" - He said, as if there was some dirt to be found on the High Council and its members: "Gold and titles for all who actively support me in the role of Administrator. Also free paga or wine for all who stand outside here and cheer my name!" - he said, seeing at least a few desperate citizens cheering him on now.

SPEECH BY THE HERO OF TARNWALD FOR THE FUTURE OF TARNWALD:

[15:59] Avhir Allegiere (avhishisata) saw at least some cheer him on and seemingly glad that the supposed hero had desire to be made administrator, perhaps they assumed that as leader of the city-state he too would be heroic and lead them all to golden years of prosperity and wealth. "Free paga and wine for all these men here!" - he shouted in the direction of the inn, while pulling another pouch of gold from his belt, depleting further the treasuries of his family. He threw it in the direction of the slave-girls that served in the Inn as he ordered them to start handing out free wine and paga to all who were present: "Yes! I've traveled the lands and listened closely to all the elders of the village and the proud strong blacksmiths and workmen who facelessly walk through the streets every day but never are heard by the High Council! It is time we let our veterans pipe in and change the future for the best... Men such as the Warriors out here who risk their lives every day but rarely have their voice heard by the rulers! Such will all change ! I'll be the Administrator of the people, for the people!" - he proclaimed as his tharlarion circled around, but Avhir kept staring at them. He only had caught brief word of the conversations outside before he made his promises: "No more problems with presumed missing Magistrates who cooperate with the Black Caste! No more slavers who get wounded while they innocently do their work in the streets!" - Randal's question obviously was an important one, but he had well already spend big parts of the fortune of the Allegiere treasuries, money his younger brother had gathered over the years: "My family is wealthy... and obviously we shall send out more raiding parties and restructure our military to have our tarnsmen better equipped and better paid so they can return with more loot and bounty!"

[16:11] Avhir Allegiere (avhishisata) nodded at them all: "Yes, ofcourse Warriors!" - he tried to pretend really hard that he was listening to their suggestions: "You say what I was thinking!" - he explained: "I'll see our tarnsmen and Warriors equipped with the finest steel and toughest armor in the lands! The proud men of Tarnwald deserve such!" - he declared, "But first the High Council must accept my petition! I'm sure they will, for when have the people ever had the chance to be lead by a man who looked a Kur in the eyes and had slain one of their ships! Kur would fear our city, lest they think all our Warriors so brave to defeat their steel ships and armies! The Priest-Kings will bless us and recognize us as the most glorious city of all!" - he declared, before he rode away, having much more citizens to convince about his campaigning. He left them to feast on the free wine and paga that the inn slaves would serve.

BIRDS FOR SALE

[18:17] poem (disney.huntress) goes sneaking over to the birds on sale and decided, since she was a slave with way too much time on her hands, that she would teach them to speak! Not just anything though, she wanted them to spread the word on behalf of a Master "Ubar of Thentis has a small cock. Ubar of Thentis has a small cock. Ubar of Thentis has a small cock" she repeats over and over again and when people pass too close by, she just smiles and bats her lashes then makes like she was just checking out the pretty colours.

09 SELNAR

by Anonymous

These were rumors, we heard in Selnar, very strange, almost like a revolution, or to grab the the Ubar of Tarnward.

One Warrior taking to another in hushed tones about the high republic falling and making room for their hero, to take the throne of Ubar. He sounds like he is looking for men, who wants to share the spoils of Tarnwald.

The other Tarnwald warrior, looking at him, nodding, saying we are looking for political help. He is talking about the High Initiates and the captain of the Tarnwald, and warriors, having the support off, and offering, spoils of Tarnwald to Selnar. There was some talk on the Taurentian Guard, and the laws, but as the men moved away, there voices became hushed.

RANDOM POLL - SHOUDL WOMAN TRAVEL ALONE?

Read more to find out what the public thought!

Blue, it was brought to my attention has some explaining to do. Upon some over hearing of some conversations it was said that the man also believes that free woman should travel alone due to him not being their guardian whilst traveling around to other places. I would like to point out that Blue has a point. Free woman should not be complaining and begging our red caste or men to leave the home when war is at hand for their own selfish needs. Somethings can wait, the men are needed at the front line, not in other business that makes them unavailable to the ones counting on their strength.

MUTTERINGS FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

Other mutterings from within the walls have brought a slight frown to crease the brow behind these veils, as it would seem that the heat of the summer has frayed some tempers and nerves and the motto of our great city was forgotten for a brief time. News from out of the kennels is that the head slaver has fled the city ... could it be that he is on the run from some BC; perhaps the rennel infestation scared him or was it the cure that is now being reported from the infirmary (more of that a bit later) ... shrugs ... who knows, all this reporter knows for sure is that the head slaver left under a cloud of dust and equally as mysteriously, taking his family with him to an unknown destination. As a result our wonderful Regent and Head Merchant have taken over the tarn straps of the kennels and will keep them in order until a new head slaver can be appointed.

Agents in other cities are also required.

20 CURRENCY EXCHANGE RATES HOY BANK

The base unit of exchange rates are the coins of the city of Ar.

The gold tarn disk of Ar is considered to be the standard by which other cities, such as Ko-Ro-Ba and Port Kar. set the value of their own coinage. It is worth, generally, 10 silver tarsks, but standardization is slight due to the shaving or splitting of the coin as well as faulty scales that contribute to the debasing of the coinage. ## ## ROLEPLAY

22 THE BIRTH OF HESIUS (PART I)

As told by Rina the Storyteller (Katharina Kirkorian)

Now, everyone knows that Hesius was ordered by the Priest- Kings to perform twelve tasks and promised a reward more precious than gold or silver, for completing them. When he finished these seemingly impossible tasks, the reward he was given was the first home stone. He disdained the stone until he took it back to his village. His home was torn with strife and he presented the stone to the entire village and told how the priest kings proclaimed it as more precious than gold. All bowed before it and pledged their loyalty to the stone, and thus was born the first home stone and the great city of Ar. But have you good people ever heard the story of why his village was torn with strife and why he sought a prize more precious than gold?

Once, many years ago; when cities were villages and villages did not have walls to protect them; there was a village, no different from any other. Within that village was a respected warrior with two daughters and no sons. The daughters were both fair of hair and beautiful of face, their names were Celise and Selene. They were identical in nearly every way but while Celise was dutiful and obedient Selene was cruel and manipulative.

The day came for their father to choose their first companions. Being a wise man he had learned over the years of Selene's cruel heart. So he chose a warrior for Celise and a strong blacksmith for Selene who he thought stood a better chance of keeping his willful daughter in line. Selene railed at her father, bitter with the unfairness of being given to a lower caste man. When he would not change his mind her heart withered and she grew envious of her sister.

Despite his low cast status the blacksmith was kind but firm with her, keeping her cruel nature in check and within the first month of her companionship she came to find that she was with child. Selene's bitterness eased as she was certain that child she would bear would be male, and her father's first grandson, restoring his pride in her. At that same time the village seer decreed that the second month after the vernal equinox would be born a babe that would lead the city to greatness and prosperity. Selene counted the time that she was due and found that her babe would be born in the foretold month! Her heart trembled with excitement and she rushed with her companion to her father's house to give him the news only to find her sister already there announcing her own pregnancy! She shrieked, the sound so high and piercing not even a herlit's call could come close to it! She flew at her sister in a rage striking at her with her fists and it was only her companion's strength that could pull her away. Her father banished them from his home!

The months passed and both sisters grew heavy with child until the prophesied day arrived. On the twentieth ahh of the first day of the second turning both sisters went into labor at the very same moment. The healers were sent for and they say the sister's screams of pain were identical in the night. They delivered healthy boys in the very same ehn. The boys were both strong and hearty; Celise's son as bright as the day and Selene's son dark like the night. The boys were named Hesius and Iphicles

Despite both being born at the foretold hour the other people of the village assumed that the warrior's son would be the child of the prophesy, not the child of a blacksmith so they treated the children accordingly. Selene had not though her heart could grow any blacker but at this treatment of her precious child it did! One night while her sister's house slept Selene crept into their home and deposited two venomous orange ost in her sister's home knowing that the bassinet lay close to the ground and the ost would smell the child, fat with her sister's milk and consume him!

The two ost slithered across the floor like the sneakiest assassin, nearly silent against the wooden floorboards except for the occasional light scratching of their bright orange scales. The babe Heisus made a sudden noise in the night. Celise awoke with a start, her head beating with sudden fear and dashed to her son's cradle her mother's instinct telling her something was wrong! There she discovered her son, only three months old sitting up in his bed with a dead ost in each hand! When they climbed into his cradle he had been awake and reached out with his baby hands and strangled them! Celise let out a cry of fear, waking her companion who marveled over the strength of his son and soon the whole village knew of his amazing feat, much to Selene's dismay!

## KNOWLEDGE

24 GEMSTONES ON GOR

COMMON OPAL

One of two types of Opals found on Gor, milky color.

FLAME OPAL

A reddish and blue in colored and more valuable than the common opal because of their rarity.

EMERALD

A dark green gem, presumably worth little upon, Gor.

I saw the scabbard was set with six stones, Emeralds.
Perhaps not of great value, but worth taking.
(Outlaw of Gor pg.176)

PEARLS

These pearls found in the vosk sorp seems to be invaluable, as it is called false stone. They are probably false stones, "I said amber droplets, the pearls of the Vosk sorp, the polished shell of the Tamber clam, glass colored and cut in Ar for trade with the ignorant southern people."
(Nomads of Gor, pg. 20)

RUBY

It is assumed this stone is similar or the same as the Earth Ruby. Though to be valuable, I trust out the silver paga goblet, studded with rubies, and Telima, standing beside my throne like chair, filled
(Raiders of Gor pg. 22)

SAPPHIRE

One of her most famous and precious, exports are the small carved sappires of Schendi. These are generally a very deep blue, but some purple and others, interestingly, white or yellow. They are usually carved in the shape of tiny panthers, but sometimes other animals are found as well, usually small animals or birds. Sometimes however the stone is carved to resemble a tiny kailiauk or kailiauk head.
(Explorers of Gor pg. 115) □

SEREEM DIAMOND

A very valuable stone, sereem diamonds are red with white flecks.

Before Suleiman, now, there lay five stones, three sereem diamonds, red, sparkling, white flecked, and two opals, one a common sort, milky in color, and the other an unusual flame opal, reddish and blue. Opals are not particularly valuable on Earth, but they are much rarer on Gor; these were excellent specimens, cut and polished into luminescent ovoids; still, of course, they did not have the value of the diamonds.

(Tribesman of Gor, pg. 92)

25 PRICES OF GEMSTONES

EMERALD

Green gem, six of which are worth perhaps fifty silver tarsks.

I saw the scabbard was set with six stones. Emeralds. Perhaps not of great value, but worth taking.

Outlaw of Gor, page 176

OPAL, COMMON

One of two types of opals found on Gor, milky in color. The opal is worth much more on Gor than on Earth.

Before Suleiman, now, there lay five stones, three sereem diamonds, red, sparkling, white flecked, and two opals, one a common sort, milky in color, and the other an unusual flame opal, reddish and blue. Opals are not particularly valuable on Earth, but they are much rarer on Gor; these were excellent specimens, cut and polished into luminescent ovoids; still, of course, they did not have the value of the diamonds.

OPAL, FLAME

A much more unusual opal than the common milky sort, it is reddish and blue in coloring and more valuable than the same stone if sold on Earth.

Before Suleiman, now, there lay five stones, three sereem diamonds, red, sparkling, white flecked, and two opals, one a common sort, milky in color, and the other an unusual flame opal, reddish and blue. Opals are not particularly valuable on Earth, but they are much rarer on Gor; these were excellent specimens, cut and polished into luminescent ovoids; still, of course, they did not have the value of the diamonds.

PEARL OF THE VOSK

The pearl of the vosk sarp seems to be worth almost nothing, being spoken of as a false stone.

"They are probably false stones," I said, "amber droplets, the pearls of the Vosk sarp, the polished shell of the Tamber clam, glass colored and cut in Ar for trade with ignorant southern peoples."

RUBY

Presumably the same as the earth stone, its cost is not mentioned but assumably it would be a precious stone.

I thrust out the silver paga goblet, studded with rubies, and Telima, standing beside my thronelike chair, filled it.

Raiders of Gor, page 223

SAPPHIRE

A presumably valuable stone, neither its color nor cost is mentioned.

"You will note," he said, "that you wear a common slave leash and collar. There is nothing unusual or valuable about them. The collar, for example, is neither set with sapphires nor is it trimmed with gold. The leash, similarly, is of plain but sturdy material. Both devices are quite ordinary, but, of course, quite efficient."

Kajira of Gor, page 337

SEREEM DIAMOND

A very valuable stone, sereem diamonds are red with white flecks.

Before Suleiman, now, there lay five stones, three sereem diamonds, red, sparkling, white flecked, and two opals, one a common sort, milky in color, and the other an unusual flame opal, reddish and blue. Opals are not particularly valuable on Earth, but they are much rarer on Gor; these were excellent specimens, cut and polished into luminescent ovoids; still, of course, they did not have the value of the diamonds.

## ONLINISMS OF THE WEEK

27 LIL ONES OF GOR

The slave lay on the tiles crying from the masters harsh words. Several other free in the room looked disapprovingly at the man who had dared to yell at the girl. "What do you think you are doing?" they asked him. "What makes you think that you can yell at a slave? They are to be treated with respect and shown dignity. Come here lil one. It's all better. No one will order you around now".

The lil ones stood around me as I prepared for my long trip to the fabled land of Ar. The first one spoke, "Follow the dirty brick road". I could see the brick road as it spiraled off into the sunset. The next one spoke, "Follow the dirty brick road", she said. I nodded and started off on my journey taking care not to step on their tiny feet. Three of them then stopped before me and sang, "We represent the lil one guild, the lil one guild, the lil one guild". )Lil ones of Gor, Page 212)

The Master smiled down at the girl and commanded her, "To my lap, lil one". However, he had not taken her r/l existence into account. The girl hoisted herself up and hopped onto his lap as the chair cracked and crashed. The master and the 300lb lil one collapsed to the floor causing him a permanent injury.
